Col. Roosevelt Hits 'Deal' in Constitution Day Speech Here

'PRESIDENT IN PLOT ON BILL OF RIGHTS,' HE CLAIMS

President Roosevelt's "New Deal" is striking at the "spirit of democracy contained in the Constitution," Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., former governor-general of the Philippines, charged today in Faneuil Hall.

The attack on the present administration's "subversive and undemocratic" policies was made by Colonel Roosevelt before an audience that packed the historic hall in observance of the 149th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution.

"The New Deal philosophy," he said, "is that men should be cared for as animals are cared for, that the state should keep the individual, not the individual the state."

"This is literally turning our conception of the United States upside down, for we have always felt that advance was made upon the development of the individual and that the development could come only through the individual's opportunity to responsibility."

"I charge that that move by Mr. Roosevelt, the form of government is not casual but premeditated. It is not unthoughtful but planned."

"I charge that he and his advisers, Moore, Tamm, Frankfurter, Cohen, et al. have a pre-

2-ALARM FIRE IN ROSLINDALE

Flames spread through a grain elevator of the William H. Dunn company, 247 Harrison street, Roslindale this afternoon.

Two alarms were sent when the flames threatened the building of the company, dealer in concrete, hay and coal.

A police raid was sent to the scene to check on the alarm and to determine if the fire was caused by a gas leak.

Other Harvard Tercentenary news on pages 6 and 15.

Eighty Harvard Clubs, from far quarters of the world as well as from every major community in the United States, sent greetings to their Alma Mater today as "old grads" gathered for their part of the Tercentenary program.

There were messages from all over England, from China and Japan, from the Philippines, from Italy, France and Canada, and greetings from each of the 48 United States.

Even the Texas clubs at Austin, Dallas, Houston, San Antonio and Fort Worth sent greetings to their Texas Centennial but what they remembered to send their message to the university.

President Roosevelt, most distinguished graduate of the day, will be in joining his fellow alumni, for he is not in Cambridge until tomorrow, but there were more than 10,000 old grads waiting for him.

The big show of today at Harvard is on Page 6, Column 5.

The Landon Tide Sweeps On

THE fallacy of the New Deal theory that FIVE BILLION DOLLARS CAN'T BE BEATEN has been proved in Michigan, as it was in Maine.

The defeat of Senator James Couzens in Michigan is the most conclusive evidence of THE COLLAPSE OF THE NEW DEAL, a pro-November test of public opinion could bring forth.

IT SPELLS THE DEFEAT OF MR. ROOSEVELT IN A REGION WHERE DEFEAT WILL BE FATAL TO HIM.

The Michigan issue was clear cut.

Mr. Couzens, a Republican senator for 14 years, again sought the Republican senatorial nomination, BUT ON A PRO-ROOSEVELT PLATFORM.

He was opposed by Wilbur M. Brucker, a former Republican governor, AND AN OUTPOKEN ANTI-NEW DEALER.

The Republican vote is THE VOICE OF MICHIGAN as the comparative totals cast in the primaries of the two major parties attest.

The ballots cast by Michigan Republicans Tuesday exceeded those of Democrats MORE THAN THREE TO TWO.

THIS can only mean that the decision GIVEN AGAINST MR. ROOSEVELT in the Republican primary WILL BE RATIFIED in THE GENERAL ELECTION.

The verdict returned by the people of Michigan, therefore, is:

MICHIGAN WILL BE IN THE LANDON COLUMN IN NOVEMBER.

Tremendously more significant is the proof thus afforded that other central states whose interests are identical with those of Michigan WILL VOTE THE SAME WAY.

The factors influencing the people of Michigan TO TURN AGAINST ROOSEVELT are not peculiar to Michigan. They are present in the same

CURLEY HITS BACK AT HULLMAN

Accusing Chairman Eugene C. Hullman of making a declaration that was "untrue," Governor Curley replied today to the charge that he urged the disputed Quabbin reservoir contract awards at an "outrageous" price.

The State House was buzzing with excitement today over Hullman's sworn testimony relative to the governor's alleged interest in the awards, testimony given reluctantly after Attorney General Paul A. Dever had insisted that Hullman tell all.

Chairman Hullman, head of the Metropolitan Water Supply Commission, made his statement while testifying at the public hearing on the Quabbin "gift" contracts, under which the state declared itself to be the owner of thousands of dollars.

RECALLS "FACTS"

"The declaration from Commissioner Hullman with reference to a conversation which he alleges he had with me in the small chamber regarding the Quabbin contract," said Governor Curley, "are not borne out by the facts as I recall them."

"This statement, unquestionably, was made for the purpose of continuing on Page 2, Column 5

LANDON TO CARRY 'FIGHTING CAMPAIGN' INTO FARM BELT

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 17 (INS).—"The policies by which this administration is trading off the markets for the American farmer must be changed," Governor Alfred M. Landon militantly declared today after announcing he would carry his "fighting campaign" for the presidency into the farm belt next week.

The Republican nominee revealed his would induce the Roosevelt program of security and financial aid to the farmer, but he would not leave his own program on his own trip. He will leave here September 22 on a one-day trip through Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. His itinerary includes major addresses in Des Moines, September 22; in Minneapolis, September 23; and in Milwaukee, September 24. All three will be delivered at night and broadcast to the nation.

"HAPPY TO SPEAK"
In announcing he had accepted these speaking engagements, Landon said: "I am happy to accept invitations to speak at Des Moines, Minneapolis and Milwaukee, and to visit with my fellow citizens in the agricultural Middle West and Lake States."

"The present stop-gap policies of this administration need to be replaced by a dependable, permanent program that will give farmers the equality it deserves. The Republican party has such a program."

"Thoughts and funds have been made imperative a proper federal-state water and soil conservation program, so far neglected by the present administration. A well-worked out land use program has become a necessity."

"I shall have something to say on these as well as other subjects."

Landon will discuss the farm problem at Des Moines. He will present trade issues at Minneapolis and he will discuss rural economy at Milwaukee.

"BACK FORTH TALKS"
Aside from these major addresses he will make scores of "back porch" visits from his special train in every state along the way. He will spend most of September 23 in Des Moines conferring with leaders and following his Minnesota address, will cross to Des Moines, Iowa, on Sunday, September 27, to visit with the farm home of former Governor Frank O. Lowden, near Oregon, Ill. to be an overnight guest. He will return to Topeka the following day.

Landon's five-point farm program was initiated in his speech in Des Moines, the "fighting campaign," Landon has pledged to an effective "back porch" and "back porch" program "fight of politics" (2) preservation of the soil for American farmers "fighting in protecting the Metropolitan Water Commission that approved a contract with the unit price of $2.50 per cubic yard for ledge removal and $1.67 for earth removal, which was made in August of 1935, or prior to the appointment of Mr. Richman as a member of the commission.

"The statement that I referred to him that I would not approve the contract to the Foster Commission is untrue for the reason that, under the law, I have no right to do so. The approval of contracts made by the commission, being solely a function of the governor's council."

"When the contract was awarded by the Metropolitan Water Board to the City of Boston in August of 1935 was the time that Mr. Hultman should have objected upon the grounds that the prices were excessive."

STORIES "MISTAKE"
"It is clearly evident that the statement made by Mr. Hultman that he had no right of transferring the responsibility for his mistake which, if allowed to stand, would have cost the state greatly in excess of what the state should be required to pay to some person other than himself."

"If the responsibility for the unit prices, which is a part of the Foster contract, is to be placed upon the shoulders of Mr. Hultman and his associates and upon no one else."

MANFIELD COMMENTS
Following closely the Curley comment came one from Mayor Manfield, in which the mayor said:

"In my radio speech on Monday night I charged that Governor Curley had not only charged the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission, but that he had it so that it would do his bidding."

"It was perfectly plain that the original Foster contract could not have been cancelled in part and new contracts at exorbitantly high figures let to new contractors unless the governor knew about it."

"Mr. Hultman's testimony yesterday before the attorney-general's hearing bears this out."

"Considerably more Democratic leaders at the state house today on Attorney-General Dever's insistence that Hultman, while testifying, drop his reluctance and tell all."

STORIES EVIDENCE
Hultman was the chief witness on the closing day of the probe, and Attorney-General Dever today was studying the evidence with a view to deciding whether or not he would recommend cancellation of the disputed "Foster" contract.

In view of the charges of Hultman and other testimony presented in the inquiry, State House observers predict Dever will recommend cancellations of the contracts.

If he does not, Mayor Manfield and other heads of communities in the Metropolitan water supply area are ready with court action to balk the contract.

Representative Philip Bowler of Brookline, avowed critic of the Curley administration, issued a scathing blast of the Governor after hearing the Hultman charges.

"The statements made by Commissioner Hultman were made under oath and clearly prove my prediction that the governor himself was the man behind the Quabbin deal," he said.

MORE PRIVATE RELIEF URGED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, Sept. 17 (INS).—Returning prosperity—the evidences of which, he said, are real—should lighten the load of distress this winter, but at the same time call for greater private assistance in carrying it, President Roosevelt declared today in addressing the fifth annual Mobilization for Human Needs.

"The president addressed the relief mobilization, of which General Duggan, chairman of the White House, inaugurating a two-day discussion of how big a part private contributions are to play in relief of the needy."

"Substantial economic progress has been made since the low point in the depression, Mr. Roosevelt said."

"The national income will soon be double what it was then. Nearly 6,000,000 more men and women are at work in private industry. Three million others are engaged in useful work provided or assisted by the government."

"Factory payrolls the first quarter of this year were more than $70,000,000 greater each week than they were in the first quarter of 1933. Systematic and successful efforts to raise the buying power of wage earners and farmers have increased the business of merchants and brought orders to manufacturers."

"Confidence has returned to the great mass of our people; confidence on the part of all except a small minority who seek to profit from the preaching of fear."

At another point, the President said: "I repeat and you repeat, I am sure, those superstitious and uncharitable assertions which are directed against those in need and against those who are helping them."

RICHMAN PLANE OUT OF BOG

Musgrave Harbor, Nfld., Sept. 17 (AP).—The rescue party led by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker reached here today after a stormy 17-hour boat trip from Harbor Grace to help Harry Richman and Dick Merrill pull their transatlantic mission plane back into the air.

Out of the bog in which Richman and Merrill landed on their return from sea-land flight, the airplane "Lady Peace" was ready to be wheeled to the hard surface of a nearby beach.

Twenty-one men have worked night and day building a 500-foot runway of planks to wheel the plane over to the beach where Richman and Merrill hope to take off for Harbor Grace.

A Harbor Grace crew plan to take on gas and then hop to New York.

The plane did not need the new planks brought here by Rickenbacker. Rickenbacker also brought 100 gallons of gasoline, two mechanics and a battery.

Merrill found the big ship had been only slightly damaged in landing in the bog.

Both fliers denied they had quarreled before being forced down here by fuel shortage.

5 Dionnes Develop
Personalities, Each

The Russian-born American, seventh princess, the first of a series of five "quintuplets" to which the Dionne family has added since 1924, is a personality of her own.

Callender, Ont., Sept. 17.—If you have never interviewed the Dionne quintuplets, you have missed one of the major experiences of a lifetime.

And since a personal meeting with them, closely guarded young ladies is a privilege granted to few, this series of profiles of the world's most famous babies is presented with the pride and with deep thanks to their guardian, mother, nurse and champion, Dr. Alice Roy Duffin, the country doctor.

The building up of an important part of our life has been the Dionne family.

Quin-Built

The first Dionne May night in 1934, the first of the Dionne family, was a little more than a year since they were born in a small cottage near the town of Callender, Ont.

All five children, each with a different personality, are now entering Callender, and are first seen as a new national emblem, the Dionne family.

Newspapers have been doing their best to tell the world of the Dionne family, and the world has been doing its best to tell the world of the Dionne family.

PRICE Of Victory? OUSTER!

Springfield, Sept. 17.—A move was underway today to remove Mrs. Agnes C. Reavey, who won the Democratic nomination for Congress in the second district in a field of eight candidates, from her position at teacher in the Washington street school.

Dr. Alfred Glickman, vice-chairman of the Republican school committee, said he would seek a new rule at the board's next meeting asking Mrs. Reavey to "save her connection with the school or take a leave of absence."

To Mrs. Reavey's defense, however, came Chester D. Scott, a member of the school committee. He said:

"If I had other members of the school committee have anything to say about it, Mrs. Reavey will remain as a teacher in our schools. It is no concern of the board that a teacher does in her public or private life so long as it is respectable."

"We ought to be grateful that a teacher in our schools is of such caliber as to win recognition of the public."

"Dr. Glickman's sentiments certainly do not represent the opinions of other members of the school committee."

In a statement today Mrs. Reavey said she could not afford to resign her position as a teacher. She is the sole support of her family of eight, she said, her husband being unemployed.

HOLY NAME GROUP HEARS REDS FLAYED

New York, Sept. 17 (INS).—Cardinal Hayes, addressing the delegates to the third annual convention of the Holy Name Society in St. Patrick's Cathedral today, called for an emphasis on patriotism as an answer to the Communist challenge.

Preaching at a solemn pontifical high mass, making the opening of the convention, the cardinal told members of the society and 200 of the clergy.

The word "patriotism" seems to be an absolute word not in our own country, barely fit to use in it. Barely do we hear it. "We are informed that, even in our schools and our colleges and our universities, instead of patriotism, there is a true patriotism."

"Today we are a world remitted. A battle against atheism in Russia, sacrifice in Spain, a Catholic country, and hypocrisy in Mexico, another Catholic country. It is a serious situation."

"We may have to battle here in America for the flag that flies over our heads. When I was in Mexico, we were taught to have reverence for the flag. Now it is a struggle among children to get them to respect the flag."

"America will never find the Catholic church under mining, destroying the government."

About 500 attended the mass, including priests from China, Porto Rico, the Bahamas and Canada. Deputy Chief Inspector Edward A. Bracken, meanwhile, 110 policemen and ten sergeants to supervise the procession.

A letter from Cardinal Paretti, secretary of state to the Vatican, was read.

2 GIRLS BANDITS' LURE IN CHELSEA ROBBERY

Two attractive girls, a blonde and a brunette, were revealed today as lures for gunmen operating in Chelsea and Revere.

Recent victims to the wiles of the girls and their heavy-lifting assistant were Michael Connelly, 24, of 71 Clark street, and Daniel Murphy, 25, of 109 Liberty street, both of Chelsea police reported.

Connelly and Murphy were waiting along the Parkway, Chelsea, and night when a sedan driven by the blonde entered by slowly. The blonde and her brunette companion, who were dressed in evening dress, stopped the car.

The "blonde" walked toward the car and was followed into the rear seat. There they met the "brunette" who, consisting of two men, then, at the blonde's bidding, the heavy sedan into high and sped away.

Two heavily laden men attacked short distance from his home here.

fully clear conception of the end in government they wish to attain and that the measures that are being taken are in the line of an emergency nature were involved by the permanent parts of our governmental scheme.

The son of the late Theodore Roosevelt claimed that President Roosevelt assumed legislative and judicial power in the National Emergency Act, which was passed in the Declaration of Independence.

Referring to the early Colonial struggle to establish the principle that no man is to be governed by a power not imposed by an executive, but must originate in an elected legislative body, Col. Roosevelt said:

"The present Congress surrendered to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration its right to impose taxes."

"With the power to tax in his

Although no special ceremony was scheduled, a reverent figure by nightfall more than 5000 people would have paid their respects to the shrine, a stained document signed 149 years ago today.

Signatures of the 39 Colonial statesmen who signed the document are all plainly visible. Since the Constitution was removed from the State Department in 1951 it has been housed in a real shrine. Guards stand watch by the little alcove 24 hours a day.

hands, an executive may make or break great sections of our community, may shift the burden of government on to the shoulders of another, may drive the officers of necessities to where they are not of reach of the average man, delivered ourselves bound into the hands of a bureaucracy.

"VIOLATES BILL OF RIGHTS" "The Bill of Rights contained in our Constitution has been violated, in being violated, and would have been violated further had not elements in our community the courage to fight."

He charged Col. Lindbergh's summary to testify before a Senate committee after commenting upon Postmaster-General Farley's cancellation of air mail contracts demonstrating freedom of speech was endangered.

"The New Deal administration," he asserted, "has also violated the principles of the fourth and fifth amendments by cancelling air mail contracts."

The NRA made repeated attempts to impose codes on our press. They were averted only by the bitterest battles.

"Summing up the administration's activity for the past four years we discover that they have deliberately set about breaking down the spirit of the Constitution of the United States."

Additions were also made by former Governor Joseph B. Ely, Secretary of State Frederick W. Cook and by others, with representatives of more than 80 patriotic, civic and religious organizations on the stage, as well as representatives of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign War, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, Spanish and Civil War veterans.

Proceeding the speaking a detachment of marines from the Charleston, Navy Yard staged the passing of colors.

Rev. Francis T. Phelan, chancellor of the archdiocese, representing Cardinal O'Connell, gave the invocation. Miss Katherine Cunningham Gray, Boston society girl, sang the Star Spangled Banner.

force in all the states having the same problems and facing the same conditions that exist in Michigan.

The two powerful voting groups in Michigan represent agriculture and labor. These are the groups in which New Deal strength would be centered IF IT HAD ANY.

THE demonstration of New Deal WEAKNESS AMONG FARMERS AND WORKERS, unmistakably written large upon the November horizon by the Couzens defeat, PRESAGES THE ELECTION OF ALFRED M. LANDON as President.

Michigan has joined Maine in serving notice upon aspirants to public office that THE LABEL OF THE NEW DEAL IS A FATAL BRAND.

In both of these great states, the personal popularity of favored sons has availed them nothing in their futile efforts to buck the tide now running against the New Deal and all its infamous works.

First it was Brann in Maine who found the New Deal to be an old man of the sea astride his back. And now Couzens in Michigan has learned that his people, asked to accept the New Deal along with him, have consigned him to the same oblivion destined to receive all others in the Roosevelt retinue.

BOTH of these men have been powerful voters. But neither could turn their people aside from the conviction that the interests of America CAN ONLY BE SERVED BY THE DEFEAT OF THE ROOSEVELT ADMINISTRATION.

Both tried, AND BOTH FAILED.

The sweep to Landon is under way. Verdicts of the kind given in Maine and Michigan are not mere straws in the wind.

THEY ARE THE ROAR OF THE GALE ITSELF.

And the storm of American determination TO PRESERVE THE BEST SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT EVER DEvised will not subside until the temples of government HAVE BEEN CLEANSed OF THE LAST VESTIGE OF NEW DEAL MISGOVERNMENT.

Romance Speed Probed At Inquiry Into Crash

Conflicting testimony on the role of speed in the crash of the excursion steamer Romance and the S. S. New York were traveling before they collided in the fog of Boston Harbor last week was offered at the federal inquiry at Appraisers' Stores today.

Fred Wallace, Boston driver employed by the U. S. Steamboat Inspection Service to investigate the Romance's wreckage, said he believed both ships were traveling at a low rate of speed, judging from the hole in the port side of the sunken Romance hull.

Benjamin Larson, 58, a seaman on watch on the New York when the ships collided, told the inquiry the Romance appeared to be traveling at a "pretty lively" rate of speed.

TELS OF BREAK Objections were registered to Wallace's testimony regarding the rate of speed of the New York, but he was allowed to answer the questions of the inquiry board. His testimony was:

Q—Do you think you could estimate the rate of speed at which the vessel which entered the Romance was traveling?

A—"Both ships were going very slowly, in my opinion. The blow suffered by the Romance was very light, considering that it was struck by such a large vessel as the New York."

Q—Were you called upon to examine the Romance's wreckage very thoroughly?

A—"No, not thoroughly. I was engaged to find the break and how much damage was done to the superstructure."

SETS VESSELS' SPEED Wallace testified the break in the Romance's hull was no feet below the waterline, and was V-shaped.

SEATTLE PAPER AWAITS STROKE PEACE MOVE

Special to American Newspapers, Inc.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 17—Frontier Seattle business men at an emergency meeting, requested the management of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer to take no action to prevent permanently suspending its conservative labor leaders to bring an end to the strike here, not against Seattle's oldest newspaper.

Charles B. Lindeman, associate publisher, later issued a statement announcing the decision of the Post-Intelligencer to suspend its labor leaders for a "a h. of period."

The Post-Intelligencer has been closed down since August 13 when the striking, led by a strike of the newspaper's management, was forced to close.

ANSAL GUILD ARTICLE The newspaper's management declared that an article in the Guild strike publication this morning to the effect that the Post-Intelligencer had announced permanent abandonment of its policy of non-interference in the labor movement, and that the statements in the Guild article of non-interference in the labor movement were entirely untrue.

Mr. Lindeman's statement followed the invitation of a group of business men I was called upon by the Chamber of Commerce, and this group asked that we defer action on the matter until the Guild article of non-interference in the labor movement was published.

At the invitation of a group of business men I was called upon by the Chamber of Commerce, and this group asked that we defer action on the matter until the Guild article of non-interference in the labor movement was published.

Then the appointment of acting superintendent must be advertised for a full day in the newspapers, after which an exam must be given. Finally appointments before the exam.

Discovery Misses a Touchdown on Great Broken Field Run

Austin Lake, a sophomore at the University of New England, was named the most valuable player in the state football league last season. He was named to the team by the coaches and the fans.

It might be said that the discovery of the broken field run is a new development in the game. But it is not. It is a technique that has been used for years by the best players in the game. It is a technique that is based on the fact that the defense is often out of position when the offense is in a position to make a play.

PAT HANLEY DISCLOSES DUTIES OF CENTER

Rules for Proper Play Given

By L. B. "PAT" HANLEY
Head Coach of Boston University

Wide open football of today demands specialists in eleven positions.

Each job is a full sized task that demands thorough knowledge, practice and experience before success can be achieved. From center play, through the line positions and the backfield, each job has its duties, any one of which make or break a football club.

- 1—Every pass a good pass.
- 2—Pass without any preliminary tip off or motion.
- 3—Get the ball away quickly and use the same motion and stance for every pass.
- 4—Use a good follow through of arms but do not watch the ball all the way back to the passer.
- 5—Practice quick recovery from passing position for charging and blocking.
- 6—Learn proper placing and speed for all passes—also the correct distance to lead receivers.
- 7—Center should lead the team in following the ball and should always be the first man to lineup for the net play.
- 8—Never pass if a teammate is offside.
- 9—Master the variety of passes—the long and short spiral, the lob and the wet ball pass.
- 10—Practice consistently passing, charging and following the ball.

PASSING

DEFENSE

The professional for defensive center play are more highly specialized than in any other position. He is not only a leader but also a defender. He must have the defensive knowledge of both positions. He may be definitely stationed either in the line or be used as a roving center in the line to protect against running plays and out of the line as pass defender or to run the same other position of the line. The center is usually the team's defensive leader and is the connecting link between the line and the backfield.

As one of a seven-man line the play of the center is especially that of a guard, with the added assignment of pulling out for pass defense. If he plays as a guard, his duties are that of defensive fullback as well as those of a guard. As a guard, he must assist in stopping plays at his side of the line and shuttle over to assist in plays aimed at the other side, and further, to cover his assignment as a man-to-man or zone pass defense.

In defense against kicks, he must be able to slip into the line to rush the kicker, and to drop back to block players attempting to cover the kick, but in all situations (running, kicking or passing) discussing his assignment as long as possible.

The player who normally plays the center position must always be the ideal man for the strenuous defensive assignment. Selection should be made regardless of normal offensive position, with the line-man who possesses the necessary qualifications being chosen for this key position.

HERE WE SEE Johnny Walker, Boston University center, demonstrating the proper way to get over a ball. Notice his wide stance which is necessary for the line-men. He is placed so that his right hand is forward to do the passing and his left hand is on the ground and his shoulders are even.

Mel Heath Loses to McLean By 6 and 4 in Amateur Golf

By BILL GRIMES
Garden City Golf Club, Sept. 17—Mel Heath, Jr., of Brae Burn, New England's final stand in the 40th United States amateur championship, passed out of the running in the fifth round here this morning on the short end of a 6 and 4 tilt with Jack McLean of Glasgow, Scotland.

Mel did not drop to his knees in despair when he learned that he had lost, but he did not even look at the score. He simply turned and walked away.

Heath, who was the defending champion, had won the title in 1937. He was the only player to have won the title in two consecutive years.

Heath's loss was a surprise to many. He had been the favorite to win the title. He had won the title in 1937 and 1938.

SETTING BACK BOXING CLOCK

HARSH JUDGMENT TO THE BOXING INDUSTRY is the rallying cry of the anti-fighters here by the New York State Boxing Commission. There's reason for the old-timey by which a six-baby fighter may clutch his addendum and sink to the mat with a full take-away.

O'HARA'S JOURNALISMS

BEING FACED WITH A HEAVY BATTERY of political enemies in Rhode Island, Walter O'Hara has recently sponsored a weekly newspaper whose short career is already noted in the national press. This, according to reports, was the purpose of the paper. Then Walter's indeleble ink, on my wall found a way through the purchase of a daily, said to be the Providence News-Tribune.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Floyd Gibbons will pay good money for good TRUE adventure stories. If hundreds of people in Boston and nearby towns have received ten-dollar and hundred-dollar bills for their yarns, you can probably say you can't do the same, for, as Floyd Gibbons has said, "I had had at least one adventure. James J. Barrow, of the Star in Concord, won one hundred and ten dollars for his story. And at this biggest moment, and you can do better. CURRENT Business BETTER

THAN TRADE SENTIMENT

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

Chicago, Sept. 17 (US)—Current business statistics are better than trade sentiment.

The business situation is better than trade sentiment, according to a survey of business executives conducted by the National Bureau of Economic Research.

Frequent reports of increases in corporation earnings have shown that progress was being made in the year since the outbreak of the war. This progress has been in spite of a schedule of military and naval expenditures which has been a heavy burden on the economy.

The war has been a source of trouble for the business community, but it has also been a source of opportunity. The war has created a demand for many goods and services which have not been met in the past.

The production of many of the goods and services which are needed for the war has been increased, and this has helped to reduce the cost of many of these goods and services.

Such changes are tending to reduce the cost of many of the goods and services which are needed for the war, and this is a good thing for the business community.

1936 CORD V-8

In the belief that most of our readers are interested in the performance characteristics of certain automobile models, we have had a series of conversations with Herbert D. Wilson, nationally known tester of the Hearst organization, who has just completed personal tests of the 1936 automobiles. His reactions will be set down in detailed items that will form a weekly feature in the Boston Evening American. The seventeenth of this series, carried herewith, is the Cord V-8.

AS TOLD TO JAMES H. DODGE

Automobile Editor

By Herbert D. Wilson

During interludes in the manufacture who conceives and builds an automobile of totally new design. When this is done, a few executives at the factory are wagering against heavy odds that their interpretation of future motor design will meet with public approval. What a joy it must be, however, to such a manufacturer when his design excites popular acclaim and the admiration of the motoring public.

Last week I took a 500-mile trip through Michigan, in a 1936 Cord convertible sedan. The car was driven by Herbert D. Wilson, nationally known tester of the Hearst organization, who has just completed personal tests of the 1936 automobiles. His reactions will be set down in detailed items that will form a weekly feature in the Boston Evening American. The seventeenth of this series, carried herewith, is the Cord V-8.

Solidity, Speed, Comfort, Beauty in 1936 Cord V-8

1936 CORD CONVERTIBLE PHAETON SEDAN
Job. Lower body lines are made possible by the absence of a driveshaft and differential housing under the body.

streamlined and so well has it been insulated that mechanical and air-stream noises have been practically eliminated.

There is no gear lever to shift on the new Cord. Instead, a small lever, about three inches long, is affixed to the steering column just below the steering wheel in such a position that it may be actuated by the tip of the finger without removing the hand from the wheel.

This small lever makes an electrical contact at the transmission and the gears are shifted when the clutch pedal is depressed. It is operated in the following manner: "Starting the car from a standstill with the motor dead, the switch is turned, the left foot put on the clutch, and immediately the motor is set into action. The motor may not be started without depressing the clutch, which is a notable safety feature.

The car now is in a position for gear shifting. Without removing the right hand from the wheel, the small lever may be placed in first with the tip of the finger, the clutch is then depressed and this action allows the automatic mechanism to shift into gear.

GEAR CHANGE EASY
The accelerator is then depressed as in any ordinary starting action, the clutch released, and the car moves forward in first gear. At any time the driver selects the lever may be placed in second or third, as desired, and then immediately, or at any later time, the clutch may be depressed and the gear selected then is shifted into position.

This, as you see, allows a pre-emption of gears without actual shifting of them into action. After one has driven a car of this type for a trial period, a pre-emption of gears is found to be a very advantageous feature.

Anxious to see how difficult it might be for one to learn this type of gear shifting in a short time, I visited a family living on a farm near Alton, Mass. The boy of the family, 14 years old, and his father were in the field plowing when I arrived. I asked the father whether his boy could drive or not and was told that he had just learned how. Pulling him behind the wheel, I experienced the shifting once, and oh!

CUTAWAY VIEW OF FRONT END
This view shows the chassis construction and independent transverse springing used in the new Cord. Note the sturdy compactness that is one of its great features.

At the left, and many mechanical features in the new V-8 engine too numerous to mention.

Here is a car as new today, built for many tomorrows, modern in design yet graceful and balanced throughout, so quiet in operation that only those equipped with alert trade may be used to match the silence of the car as a whole.

SEDAN REAR COMPARTMENT
The extra tire and wheel are concealed in a rear compartment, and in addition baggage space is provided above. Note the sloping lines at the top, which lessen air resistance.

There is youth in this car and lines the price. If you have not at the same time a distinctive drive the Cord, be sure to do so, that reminds one of foreign cars. There is a worthwhile thrill about custom make selling at five of you.

HIS 4TH OCEAN HOP

Mollison Plans 17-Hour Flight

Toronto, Sept. 17 (AP)—J. A. Mollison, Australian flyer, announced today he will take off from Flinders House, Torquay, Oct. 10 on a transatlantic flight to England.

He said he hoped to reach Crete, en route London, in 17 hours on a flight through the sub-tropics.

Mollison declared he will leave London for New York aboard the liner Daily Knight.

After the New York-England flight, he searched to move for two new aerial records, including a solo trip around the world.

If the weather is suitable, he declared he plans to attempt to set a solo record from England to South Africa and later might "crossed" a flight around the world at the equator.

Mollison, husband of the British genuine flyer, Amy Johnson Mollison, has made two transatlantic flights across the northern route and another from England to Brazil.

His first trip across the North Atlantic took him from Port Moresby, New Guinea, to Penzance, England, on July 15, 1932.

The second he made with his wife from Penzance, Wales, to Stratford, Conn., on July 23, 1933. Both flights were in the company of a biplane.

Mollison was technical adviser to Mrs. Beryl Markham, the first woman flyer to make a solo flight from England to Nova Scotia.
